Thank you for your interest in the Doubletree by Hilton Kamloops. We are delighted that you are considering us for your hotel requirements while in Kamloops, BC.

Here some information about our wonderful city:

Kamloops British Columbia, is in the Thompson Valley. The city's center is in the valley near the confluence of the Thompson River's north and south branches. Suburbs stretch for more than a dozen kilometres along the north and south branches, as well as to the steep hillsides along the south portion of the city and lower northeast hillsides.

The Tk'emlúpsmc, 'the people of the confluence', now known as the Tk'emlúps te Secwépemc are members of the Interior-Salish Secwepemc (Shuswap) speaking peoples of British Columbia.

At one time the Secwepemc people occupied one large Traditional territory covering approximately 145,000 square kilometers. In 1811, after European contact, the colonial government divided the Secwepemc people into 17 distinct groups with specific parcels of land designated to each.

The Kamloops Reserve land base was established in 1862 under the direction of Governor James Douglas. It is located east of the North Thompson River and north of the South Thompson River, adjacent to the City of Kamloops.

The word Kamloops is the English translation of the Shuswap word Tk'emlúps, meaning 'where the rivers meet,' and for centuries has been the home of the Tk'emlupsemc, 'people of the confluence.' Tk'emlúps has always occupied a place of great economic importance in our region. Traversed by two major waterways, traditional Tk'emlupsemc territory was the center of major traffic and trade routes. Due to our community's great economic and military strength, as well as our ancestor's pivotal role in the creation of peace accords, the Tk'emlupsemc were designated the Secwepemc7uwi, 'the real Shuswap'.
